

Rep. Michael Caldwell
District 20

Biography

Michael Caldwell is the Republican State Representative for Georgia's 20th House District. He was also the fifth employee and partial owner of a company called Python Safety (acquired by Capital Safety, then subsequently acquired by 3M in 2015), which specialized in dropped object prevention solutions. He authored the most widely adopted drop prevention safety procedure in the world, which currently governs nearly 100,000 workers and has spent much of his career traveling the globe speaking on this leading cause of death in the workplace.

He grew up in Woodstock, Georgia, after having lived in Michigan, California, Texas, North Carolina and Georgia. He married his high school sweetheart, Katie, and they are the parents of Oliver. After attending Cherokee County Schools, Michael earned his Bachelor of Business Administration, majoring in finance, from Kennesaw State University in less than three years.

Michael, Katie and Oliver live in Towne Lake and are proud to represent Woodstock, Towne Lake and Holly Springs in Georgia's House of Representatives. He serves as vice chair of the Code Revision Committee and as a member on the Budget and Fiscal Affairs Oversight, Economic Development & Tourism, Interstate Cooperation, Regulated Industries and State Planning & Community Affairs committees. He was sworn into office in January of 2013.
