House of Representatives

Doctor of the Day

- The Nurse will walk you in the House Chamber.
- You should stand along the wall or be seated in a window sill and wait where you will be greeted by a member of the House staff.
- House staff will then inform your designated Representative that you are on the floor, and ready to be introduced.
- Once you and the representative are ready, and at the appropriate time, the Speaker will call on your designated Representative to introduce you.
- You will follow the Representative up to the Speaker's rostrum and stand to their right.
- The Representative will read your brief biography, then turn and introduce you.
- House Members will rise to clap and welcome you.
- You will trade places with the Representative and have the opportunity to make very brief welcoming remarks.
- After your remarks, House Members will rise to clap once again.
- You will pause for a picture with the Speaker and Representative before you step down from the Speaker's rostrum.
- The Nurse will escort you off the House floor.
